

Old friends get 20-game totals

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was a strange quirk of fate that Jim Maloney of the Cincinnati Reds and Dick Ellsworth of the Chicago Cubs should "arrive" as 20-game winners on the same day

Neither had been a National League winner of stature until this year But Ellsworth defeated the crumbling Giants 7-5 at San Francisco in the Labor Day diamond festivities for a 20-7 mark and 3,000 miles away in New York the fireballing Maloney beat the Mets 1-0 for a 20-6 record.

All of which was a double dose of success for two former high school teammates from Fresno, Calif , who reached the majors in a rather strange manner.

It started for them in 1958 when Cub scouts went to inspect Maloney, a high school shortstop, but instead of inking him grabbed off Ellsworth. They should, in the light of developments, probably have taken them both but you can't say they made a mistake in latching onto Ellsworth

Because his victory over the Giants Monday made him the Cubs' first 20-game winner in 18 years.

Meanwhile, Maloney, ignored by the Cubs, drew the attention of the Reds and they suggested that he switch from shortstop to pitching It was a rewarding move

Their simultaneous explosion into the exalted 20-game class could not have been predicted at the beginning of the season

Ellsworth, a 6-foot-4 southpaw, was 1-7 at Fort Worth in 1958, 10-14 at Fort Worth in 1959, 2-0 at Houston in 1960 before being taken up to the Cubs where he finished 7-13 and, in the last two seasons, 10-11 and 9-20 respectively. This season he finally got an assist from the long-inept Cubs, however, and the payoff has been dazzling

Maloney had the benefit of playing with what had to be considered a more solid club and yet, in a way, his arrival at the top has been even more sensational For the 6-foot, 2-inch right-hander started in organized ball a year later than Ellsworth. He was 6-7 at Topeka in 1959 as he learned the tricks of the pitching trade

The next season he was 14-5 at Nashville but, called up by the Reds, was able to compile no better than a 2-6 mark In 1961 he was 6-7 and then, last season, was 4-1 at San Diego before returning to Cincinnati for a 9-7 finish

Manager Freddie Hutchinson earmarked him as a possible big winner last spring and Maloney, who like Ellsworth is 23, made a real prophet out of the "Bear" But it is to be doubted that even Hutch figured on Maloney to hit it this big

Mr Ryan

Down on the river there is a fella named Benjamin J Ryan whose job is shipping commodities on the Missouri river

This Mr Ryan is quite a gent He can cuss a southern drawl streak and he can soothe a conversation like a master toastmaster He's got a lion's heart when it comes to goodwill and he is probably Nebraska City's best promoter in and out of town

If the plans of his company the Sioux City-New Orleans Terminal Corp , jive like Capt David Parker and Mr Ryan hope they do, Steinhart Terminal will be much larger in a few short years

When you approach the terminal and are greeted with a friendly smile and hand grasp by Mr Ryan, respond with the same tone

This old world needs a few more folks like the river man
