The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

EDITORIALS

Blessed are the poor in spirit for theirs is the kingdom of heaven (Matthew 5 3)

PRAYER Great God of us all, whose greatness and goodness Christ has revealed to us, help us to be perfect even as Thou art perfect by growing to be more Christlike in spirit We thank Thee that Thou hast granted us this day of life that we may grow We would fulfill Thine expectations by our loyalty and devotion and trust Thine be the glory forever through Christ our Redeemer and Master Amen

WE'LL BE READY

NOTE to Arthur Sweet and Ed Ernst: Your notice that we will be called via dial at midnight (Arizona time) on February 2 duly received and carefully noted

We'll try to be awake Whatever sleeping which has been done will be carried on, quietly of course, in church!

This is written in the hope that it may get into the editorial column of The News-Press before the date above mentioned

DOES THIS SOUND FAMILIAR?

(From the World-Herald)

UNDER an Omaha ordinance, dogs away from their owners' property must be on leash or "under control of the owner" The latter provision was put in at the request of dog owners whose pets had received obedience training, and would heel at command.

The City Council this week voted to shelve an ordinance that would have eliminated the control provision, and would have required all dogs to be on leash.

If the dog ordinance were seriously enforced, such a change might be helpful. Many persons whose dogs have not had a vestige of training seem to take advantage of the "control" provision simply to turn their dogs loose

As long as enforcement remains lackadaisacal, it does not matter much what the ordinance says. Good citizens will continue to keep their dogs on their property, and those who feel their dogs have rights superior to the rights of neighbors will continue to turn their dogs loose.

A COMPOSITE, hand-drawn picture contrived from details furnished by a girl and remindful of similar efforts of The Law in TV sketches, brought to book the killer of a young man who was seated with his girl friend in a car near Tucson a couple of weeks ago.

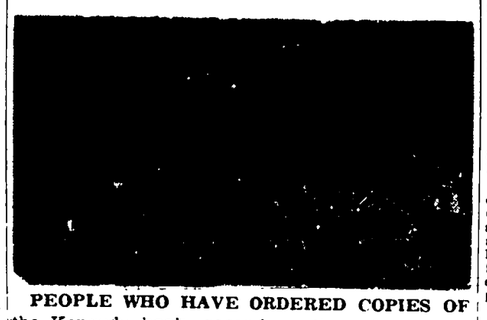

The killer deliberately shot the young man, named Bailey, and forced the girl, a Miss Boetcher, to accompany him in his car. She jumped out when she saw a parked highway patrol car. Her abductor speeded away and escaped the careful search by the lawman.

The girl had a good memory She remembered every detail of her abductor's features and they were carefully drawn by a lawman with a flair for portrait art

A few days ago an unknown man called the Globe police department he had seen the newspaper replica of the drawing and said they'd find the original working in a filling station in Globe

Quickly the youth was picked up and soon confessed "I saw the picture in the paper, too," he said, "and I knew I'd be caught" Police are wondering if he wasn't the mysterious caller, who practically confessed his crime by telephone!

Sometimes the television and movie "mystery" shows seem far-fetched One with a similar drawing seemed so to me It didn't seem possible that anybody could sketch a suspect whom only one person had seen face to face, accurately enough to bring about an arrest But it happened in real life, too. You just never can tell. —J.H.S.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE ORDERED COPIES OF the Kennedy book, second printing, should call for them as soon as possible. The second printing copies were received this week from UPI and American Heritage All of them have been sold in advance and we will receive no more If they are not called for within a few days we will probably put them on the open market

MY memory is so short, that I forgot the Second Edition of the Nebraska City Prayer Breakfast Thursday morning I was glad to attend the first, vowed to attend the second, and then sat through it at my desk here at the office When I came to it was too late to go

I'll try again next week

THE current issue of Arizona Progress, the publication of the Valley National Bank of Phoenix, comments that Arizona has "unparalleled natural scenery, a full spectrum of recreational activities, and numerous parks, campgrounds and historical sites The greatest visitor attraction that Arizona possesses, however, continues to be climate"

Well, Nebraska is having good climate right now, too and the sky coloration — morning and night — is as wondrous as anywhere

But what we started to write was that Arizona is so proud of its attributes that we are receiving TWO copies of Arizona Highways, that wonderful magazine, each month And so are Mr and Mrs. Ray Duncan.

ARIZONA Highways is about the most attractive and interesting magazine put out for publicity purposes that anyone has ever seen The printing is marvelous and, of course, fine pictures are used to start with

MEL Steen's Tourism Department is making real progress along this line His department has greatly improved Outdoor Nebraska in recent years and under the new name which I believe is Nebraskaland the colorful magazine no doubt will broaden its scope to give it wider interest Formerly it was for hunters and fishers, but this is being changed, I understand, to include others

Dear Mr and Mrs Gieseking

Don't feel too badly about your car Truth of the matter is, all of us have been getting gasoline tanks filled during the price war, but none of us have been unlucky enough to have a fire break out.

A trucker pulled into an Omaha service station recently where the war was in full force, filled his tank and asked for a barrel to fill and take home

The deputy assessors have jobs similar to mailmen

The big exception is that many people hope the dog will bite the seat of the pants of the assessor Mailmen on the other hand are welcome fellows Their jobs are getting the information to the public But the dogs don't know that

Deputy assessors actually aren't thought of as unwelcome people They are a fine lot of cordial, cooperative individuals hand-picked by Assessor Howard Zimmers Give them your cooperation We can all learn something by lending a hand

Dear Dick

There's nothing wrong with Nebraska farmers The Jaycees didn't hesitate to choose Lynn Handy, from Percival, Ia as the outstanding young farmer just because a river and state line separate the communities, Nebraska Citians like to think of Percival folks as part of the family Didya know that when the first organizational meeting was called to build a sale barn in Nebraska City that among those attending and whose suggestions received consideration was Rep Paul McElroy of Percival?

Otoe countians showed a lot of interest in the state centennial at a recent meeting There's no doubt Otoe countians want a part in the 1967 celebration Just what will be done will depend on the suggestions that likely will b asked by the committee

My first suggestion is beard growing Now to keep peace in the families since 1967 is some time away, my suggestion is that only a few grow beards until 1967 namely the mayors of towns, councilmen and village board members

Driver backs into police car

Doris J Coster, 21-year-old Weeping Water housewife, backed her car on Fifth street near Fourth corso Thursday and, of all things, bumped a Nebraska City police car

In the police vehicle was Howard A Meyer He was behind the Coster vehicle and when it stopped and started backing, he also stopped and started back

The front of the new police car was damaged an estimated $113 The other car was damaged $60 worth
