Honest Sam is released

MIAMI (AP) — Sammy Lee Fleming waited around the Dade County Courthouse all day Friday, trying to turn himself in to start a 60-day jail term But nobody would take him

He walked out of the building a free man Friday evening after a judge decided that anyone who would put up with that much red tape to accept his punishment deserved a second chance

Fleming pleaded guilty several days ago to buying, receiving and concealing stolen goods He said he had paid some teen-agers $20 for four stolen tires

But the 28-year-old Fleming's wife had just given birth, so the judge allowed him to wait until Friday before reporting to jail

When he showed up at 9 30 a m to start his sentence, he said, the jailers told him they were too busy to take him right away and told him to wait

Fleming waited outside a courtroom and tried periodically to get sent to jail But each time the jailers brushed him aside, he said

A spokesman said later none of the jailers involved was available for comment

Fleming was still waiting nervously when he was noticed by an assistant public defender, Roy Black

Black found out what Fleming was waiting for then went into the courtroom and told Judge Alfonso C Sepe, "This man deserves a chance Anybody else would have been gone by now"

The judge agreed and reduced Fleming's sentence to probation

After nine hours in the building, a happy Fleming shook hands with Black, then went home to his wife and child

Personna blades are said unsafe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of a company accused of distributing razor blades in dangerous packages claims he chewed on the container and found it harmless.

Charles Wilson, head of the American Safety Razor Division said the complaints the Federal Trade Commission mentioned in an unfair-trade action Friday were inspired by his competitors

At issue is an advertising campaign in which millions of a new variety of razor blades are being distributed in Sunday newspaper advertising supplements in more than a dozen cities.

Besides issuing an unfair-trade complaint against Philip Morris, the FTC said it will seek an unprecedented court injunction against the ad campaign for the Personna 74 razor blade

Lutheran talk buying Pershing

BEATRICE (AP)—A committee of 30 laymen and clergymen from the Wisconsin Synod of the Lutheran Church met Friday to consider a possible purchase of the Pershing College campus.

If the purchase goes through, officials, said, the synod would make the campus into a preparatory school

Following the meeting the committee voted to have the group contact synod officials in Milwaukee, Wis , to get their opinion on the potential purchase

It was also agreed to take a poll of all congregations in the synod south and west of Nebraska, regarding what type of enrollment to project should the purchase go through

Pastor Verdell N Tassler of the Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church in Beatrice, said it was a "good discussion" but added that "no committments have been made yet"

Pershing College closed earlier this year because of financial difficulties, and the board of regents voted last week to file a petition of voluntary bankruptcy

The Buck Ends Here

By IVAN D E BEAUMONT

Welcome home, Mr Kaywoodie

Well, some nasty fireman heisted my Kaywoodie pipe from the dinner table at the "thank you" dinner a week ago, but we've got it back

(I blamed Sam Kellogg, Jr., for swiping it, but Max Boyd who sat beside Sam, swore he didn't take it.)

We received a telephone call from Ken Wiles, one of the City's fulltime firemen, that he had read the article in The Buck about the missing pipe and said it was in the display case (along with the historical relics) at the fire department when he came on duty

We accused him of everything in the book and he denied everything. Anyway, we're 'puffin' again

Thanks, whoever you are

The trade school they're talking about at Peru State deserves much support from Nebraska City residents If a school is established at Peru under the present plan, it will be the only one of its kind in the state

As explained to a visiting delegation the other day, Peru State would have a two-year trade school. The course of study would include accredited college courses in math and English and at the end of two years, graduates would receive an Associate of Arts degree

The real whing-dinger is the next step A Peru State trades graduate could spend two more years at the college and graduate with a bachelor's degree. There's no place else in Nebraska where that is done

What's so hot about it?

Well, if a young man or woman decides he or she doesn't want a trade and instead wants another field, there's two more years of studies And if he still wants his trade, but wants more education, he can have both

Boosters of the program at Peru State are hopeful that the legislature will approve the school and a $421,000 item in the college budget in favor of paying $900,000 for Pershing at Beatrice and then staffing it and buying equipment.

If you agree that the Peru trade school is needed, write Sen Calvin Carsten, Second District, Nebraska Legislature, Lincoln, Nebraska

Mighty Twelve-Ninety is a good guy!

Roger W Morgan put the whammy on his audience at the Fun Night last week at Senior High and we must admit he pretty well "Morganized" the gang.

Mr Morgan is a disc jockey for KOIL and plays the kind of music that most adults refer to only as "noise." Yet, this man (he said his home is Oregon) has a following of the young and he talked their language at the program.

He also complimented Nebraska City students on their good grooming He made quite a hit.

Mr Morgan did his bit at the stage show, then put on the wildest pair of striped flairs and joined the kids at the band and on the dance floor

The Morgans (she was the good-looking gal who caught the eye of many boys) mixed with the high school students Mrs Morgan spotted a cross on a chain around the neck of one senior boy and asked him about it.

He proudly said "I am a Christian"

Mrs Morgan flashed a smile and said "so are we."

That opened up a new route of communication and the Omahans were invited to join in one of the youth Christian study groups going on each week in town

For Crippled Children —

Mrs Don (Karen) Neeman, 409 North Sixteenth Street, is looking for a new way to focus attention of the needs of the handicapped

"What do you think about an Easter egg hunt for the handicapped?" she asked

A fine idea, we said

The Jaycees and City retailers sponsor an Easter egg hunt every year at Nuckoll's park. Many of the candy eggs may be redeemed at stores for some pretty nice gifts

The "hunt" lasts about 10 seconds and the kids do a pretty good job of making darn sure they've looked everywhere

Mrs Neeman realizes that handicapped children couldn't make quite as rapid a sweep of the park and questioned whether a second "hunt" could be held for these children

Other programs talked were day camps and an Easter party for handicapped students at school If you'd like to help I'm sure Mrs Neeman would appreciate a call

Exon says he has kept his promises

NORTH PLATTE (AP) — Gov J J Exon, speaking at a victory dinner Friday night, said that in the 2½ months he has been in office he has kept his campaign promises by —Holding the line on taxes,

—Recommending funds for effective ecological programs particularly for sewage disposal plants,

—Recommending a $300 cost-of-living increase to lower echelon state employes,

—Assembling "the greatest team ever to come into state government,

—Adopting a get-tough policy on drugs,

—Working to eliminate the sales tax on food,

—Providing more money both for mental health programs and for vocational education programs than in thepast

Exon said $700,000 would be added to the University of Nebraska budget for research stations to correct a shortage of that amount created through an error in calculating the university's income

He read a letter from the School of Agriculture stating that the station's cash revolving fund were reported in such a way that conclusions might have been drawn that the funds were for general use, while in fact they were circulated in a number of programs and activities

Exon said it was due to the error regarding revolving funds that he was charged with emasculating the research station at North Platte

"This is one governor who knows agriculture is important," Exon said "I also know the importance of agricultural research so I increased its budget"

Exon said prominent colleges in other parts of the nation were holding the line on their educational budgets while the University of Nebraska actually has an increase in total funds

He cited an examples Missouri with no raise, Columbia with a 15 per cent project cut over the next three years, and Standford with a goal of cutting its budget $6 million in the next five years

Exon said his budget was designed not to reduce the teaching side of the university but rather to cut administrative costs

"We are trying to be reasonable," he said, "I am not necessarily saying the University of Nebraska is unreasonable, but there are some unreasonable people on the other side of the fence"

Exon said the University of Nebraska budget had about tripled in about seven years The change, he said, included the addition of the University of Nebraska at Omaha to the university system

Exon said he was also recommending more money for Nebraska's four state colleges because they had been "poor second cousins of education" for too long The governor said he was recommending $9 9 million for in state aid to help cities qualify for federal matching funds for ecological programs

He said he had introduced an emergency appropriation which would mean "millions of dollars worth of savings for taxpayers in the cities of this state."

Exon said he was seeking drug control legislation under which someone convicted of pushing hard drugs would face a 5 to 20 year jail term rather than the 1 to 15 year term under present law

He said he was also introducing a bill to protect policemen The bill would provide for a minimum sentence of 25 years imprisonment without parole and a maximum sentence of death for anything convicted of killing a policeman

DDT good health is in experiment

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif (AP) — Robert Loibl reports he feels better, his appetite picked up, his wife Louise's dandruff disappeared and her teeth and gums are healthier The reason, he says, is DDT

Owners of a pest control firm, Loibl, 60, and his 44-year-old wife started taking 10 milligram capsules of the pes Feb 17, they said, to show it is not harmful to humans

"We're going to continue on always with this," Loibl said Friday He said their intake is 300 times what the average person consumes in a normal daily diet

Federal and California officials have ordered DDT gradually withdrawn from agricultural and home use, saying its accumulation in the body could be harmful to body organs

Loibl said he and his wife first noticed the differences about a week after they started taking the pills "It is more then coincidental these things happened since taking DDT," he said.

Dr William Westlake, a University of California chemist, has termed the Loibl experiment ridiculous He said previous studies show "the intake of even larger quantities of DDT causes no apparent harm"
