"Makers"

'Makers' adorns wall in Fine Arts building

PERU — (Special) — "Makers", a 16' long by 8' wide mural, now adorns a first floor wall in Peru State's Fine Arts building. The mural is a result of the new "Mid-Plains Studies" program which provides monies for New Courses and Workshops.

The mural was designed by art instructor Paul Fell and he and members of his "The Mural" class applied acrylic paint to the four masonite panels. Mr Fell acted as the Master for this project and Ray Boeche, Ray Christie, John Coop, Kelly Evers, Pat Finley, Sharon Martin, Bob Little, Gary Staples, and Tom Thomas served as apprentices.

Each of the three figures in the painting represents an art form. The top Maker, art objects; the middle form, fantasy in the theatre; and the third, a music maker. None of the figures are holding objects, instead the hands are positioned to describe the action

Mr Fell said, "Makers" occupied six or seven weeks from start to finish." It is hoped this will be the first of many murals on the Peru campus Others are currently in the planning stages.

OPPD revises rate structure

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—The Omaha Public Power District board of directors Friday revised the district's rate structure and approved a general rate increase averaging about 8 per cent to be effective with meters read next April 1.

The vote in the special meeting was 4-3.

OPPD officials said additional revenue is essential if the district is to continue providing a reliable supply of electric service to its customers.

The construction of a coal fired generating station at Nebraska City and inflation were cited as reasons the additional revenue is needed. The Nebraska City plant is scheduled to be in operation in 1979.

Residential customer increases will vary from an actual decrease of 5 per cent for extremely small users to a hike of 16 per cent for larger users.

In addition to the rate increases, the board made a number of other changes in the overall rate structure. They are — Lower fuel and production costs Actual rates will increase, but the amount added to electric service bills for fuel and production will be less.

— The difference between the gross and the net amount of electric service bills was cut from 10 to 7 per cent. The maximum amount remained at $5.

— The minimum electric service bill increased from $3.50 to $3.80 per month.

— An increase of 13 per cent for all street lighting customers throughout OPPD's 13-county service area. This includes all systems including cities, counties and the state

— Establishment of a new rate for the largest commercial and industrial customers, those with a demand of more than 5,000 kilowatts.

— Establishment of a new rate with an interruptible, or curtailable, clause for commercial and industrial customers. Under this rate, customers will select a firm demand amount which the district will provide without interruption They also will accept interruptions of any power being used above that amount.

— Establishment of a new rate to provide financial incentive for use of electricity by commercial and industrial customers. Customers will receive a lower charge for electricity used between 10 p m and 8 a.m. when OPPD has large amounts of generating equipment setting idle.

NYC assistance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Banking Committee predicts that the panel will ignore a promised presidential veto and approve a bill that would grant $7 billion in federal loan guarantees to New York City.

"I think we can do it," said Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis "It will be close, but we will have the votes to do it "

He said the only thing that might stand in the way is that "a lot of people would sooner see New York perish in bankruptcy."

Under the bill, the city's fiscal operations would be overseen by a federal panel made up of presidential appointees.

The Banking Committee is expected to begin work on the bill Monday.

The Buck Ends Here

By IVAN D.E. BEAUMONT

Didya hear the one. . .

about three little boys talking about how tough they were.

"I'm so tough I wear out a pair of shoes each week," one of the little shavers said

"Phooey," said the second, "I'm so tough I wear out a pair of blue jeans every day

"You guys aren't so tough," said the kid in the ragged britches and holey tennies "I wear out my grandma and grandpa in an hour "

Larry Wiles, deputy state fire marshal, has a tray of colored slides that are unpleasantly worth viewing They are about a fire in a nursing home in Iowa

Larry screened the slides the other night for rescue squadsmen to point out what could and in the case of the Iowa home, did happen It's a brutal picture-story. It is presented in such a happening In this particular fire, three employes fought the fire with two extinguishers. Their error was failing to turn the alarm in to the station immediately.

As a result of the presentation, Rescue Chief Harold Rowe directed that squadsmen answer all fire calls. Previously squadsmen have been summoned along with firemen when there is a major disaster In many cases, squadsmen have gone along on their own, just in case they were needed.

Not now They will be dispatched with fire calls handled in the same 911 emergency communications network

Stolen —

A young woman was showing off her new swimsuit to her mother

"If I had something like that when I was a a girl," said the mother, "you'd be six years older "

Sorry about that

Mr and Mrs Andrew Kreifels mailed a package of food items to their son, Doug, in Mexico three months ago. The postage was over $10 but, what the heck it was something for their son.

The other day the couple got the box back. . .and had to pay over $6 Their son moved on to South America and the package apparently didn't get to him before he left Mexico.

We know a mother who's a bit upset with worldwide postal service

The space age

"I'm going to be an astronaut when I grow up," the little shaver said

"Oh," said his big brother, "Do you really want to fly in space?"

"Nope," was the reply, "I just want to go eight days without a bath "

Veterans Remembrance

The national Elks magazine printed an article in the current magazine pointing out the necessity of the dedication of Elks to veterans

"We used to celebrate what was called Armistice Day on November 11 We observed a minute of silence, blew factory whistles, rang church bells, sounded auto horns at 11 o'clock on the eleventh day of the eleventh month to commemorate the signing of the armistice which ended what was called the war to end wars." Americans are still in Europe by the thousands, 30 years after the fighting stopped, the Elks article said.

Then came the Korean war. There are thousands still in South Korea Most recently, the nation was torn by war in Vietnam. "We finally pulled out of that seemingly hopeless attempt to prevent a communist takeover of southeast Asia, but not until many thousands of our military men died or suffered wounds from which many will never recover; they are still in our VA and military hospitals "

The Elks pledge "So long as there is a disabled veteran in our hospitals, the Elks will never forget him "And we mean it today "

Veterans Day will be observed Tuesday, November 11 in Nebraska City.

Hello, there, Mrs Arthur [May] Whyte

One of the best things about being a newspaperman is meeting the nicest people.

We got a note the other day from Mrs Arthur (everyone calls her "May") Whyte. She spends much of the cold winter months elsewhere, but while she's in Hamburg and Nebraska City, she makes her presence known by her activity

We read the Grape Community hospital newsletter the other day about the volunteers Yes, you guessed it May Whyte was going from bed to bed offering help.

The envelope? Oh, yes It contains subscription receipts from the Nebraska City Daily News and the Nebraska City Weekly News from her father, John Volkhardt, dating from 1886 The newspaper was established November 14, 1854

May remains as one of our regular readers That makes us feel good. Besides guys, when a lady 91 years young sends you a personal note, that's worth looking into — pronto

From George Fenske's files

A young woman asked her girl friend, "If a fellow took you to a movie one night, and to dinner the next night and to a concert the next night and then to a night club the night after that — and never even tried to kiss you goodnight, what would you do?"

With hardly a pause, the friend answered "I'd lie about it "

Turkey Day

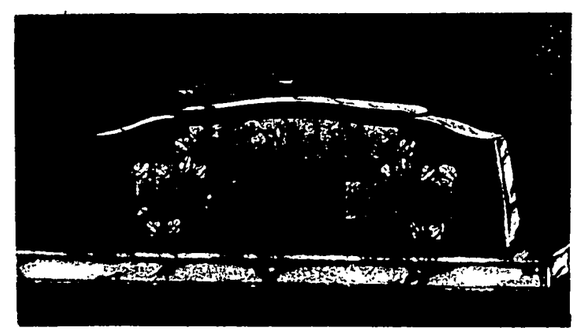

On November 27 Americans will sit down to a table of plenty On this particular occasion the menu will be turkey and the National Geographic Society estimates over 37 million will be under the carving knife

The second biggest eatingest holiday, Christmas, only 18 million turkeys will be on the dinner tables Americans are big beef eaters, but of all the animals raised and sold for meat, turkey has the highest protein and lowest calorie content

Nobody seems to know why there are Tom Turkeys and no Dick or Harry Turkeys

The turkey has been a victim of mistaken identity since Spanish explorers brought the first ones back from the New World. This new arrival was quickly mistaken for the two look-alike birds, the peacock and guinea fowl

There's one thing that all experts agree on Turkeys produce more meat — 65 per cent white and 35 per cent dark — than any other market animals

There are three things that every man should make provisions for while he lives: A will, a cemetery lot, and a family memorial monument. ANDREWS MONUMENT WORKS advises that the selection of a cemetery lot and a memorial should never be left to bereft family members. Making the proper choice under trying circumstances is very difficult. Yet ANDREWS MONUMENT WORKS helps you select a fitting monument now — from their large selection of granite monuments, in various sizes, styles and colors — while time permits proper forethought together. Choose your family monument today at the ANDREWS MONUMENT WORKS.
