The Buck Ends Here
By Ivan D E. Beaumont

You won't believe this but we caught more fish than we could bring home

The guides at our fishing camp at Kenora, Canada, assured us we would get our fill of fish and fishing We discovered that meant eating the morning catch

"Shore lunches" became routine and the fish sandwiches were the greatest

The guides convinced us that now is not the time to eat the famous Northern Pike "Only in the spring and fall," they kept saying as we tossed back five and eight pounders (I've never seen so many men almost cry)

The weather was unbelievable One day it was shirtsleeve weather The next day it was full winter gear, plus all those heavy rubber raincoats and trousers My fingers were numb.. but not so numb that I couldn't put another minnow on the hook.

I discovered that the country really doesn't have lakes It's the opposite — it has islands We didn't travel from one lake to another we traveled from one island location to another

None of that made any difference anyway I went along to fish .not to navigate

On the return to the states we were approached by a border guard for the usual questions and inspection of luggage We also had a box of fish packed in dry ice It was the first time I had the opportunity to flash my Canadian fishing license

It was a good trip I'd recommend such an expedition for any fisherman .just don't eat as much as I did or you'll also be miserable for a week

The Fenske File —

The eligible bachelor was telling a friend how successful his grandfather had been and added, "I'm not going to marry until I find a girl like the one grandfather married "

The friend commented, "but they don't make girls like that anymore "

"Oh yes they do," the bachelor said, "grandpa just married a pip last week."

From the veterans —

Richard Paul, a member of the Nebraska Rehabilitation committee, attempted to stir Legionnaires in the July issue of the Nebraska Legionnaire about the Bicentennial

"What are we going to do this Bicentennial year? It is not too late for a Post Bicentennial project Put up a memorial, new post flag pole with some gingerbread landscaping or any other appropriate item of dedication in remembrance of our veterans.

"Keep America Alive. It is vast and full of resources, human and material. Let's uphold our cause of freedom and courage. Too many good men have been taken away Too little spirit remains

"Wave your flag. Speak with vitality. Shout your heart out and cry America This is our land to preserve and care for so let us keep it sacred, pure, rich and reserved Veterans have shared it from the beginning of our country's time."

Legionnaire Paul is right, of course There's still a lot of time to ring the Bicentennial bells

Nebraska City's post should be commended for its efforts. The flag appears every day on top of the Legion club and Past Commander Bill Berger with the help of some others, stretched a flag display from his store across the street to the club

Then, on the Fourth of July, Commander Foy Thayer and some Legionnaires with get-up-and-go took over the intersection at 11th Street and 4th Corso for an hour with a color guard and others handed out brochures to motorists pointing out the action was a gesture to remind people of the nation's independence

Larry Davis, Bellevue Guide —

And then there was the golfer getting ready to hit off on the No 1 tee As he did so, a voice over the clubhouse loud speaker called out, " Will the fellow ready to hit off No 1 please hit from behind the tee marker?"

The golfer looked up, got ready to hit again and the voice called out "It is against the rules to hit from ahead of the tee marker The golfer stopped, gave the clubhouse a dirty look and again got ready to hit. Once again the voice came over the loud speaker "Sir, if you do not tee off from behind the tee marker, we will have to ask you to leave the course "

The golfer exploded, threw his club in the air and screamed "Will somebody tell that idiot on the microphone that this is my second shot!"

Postal fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, target of several pending legal attacks, could suffer a substantial financial setback if seven states succeed in their challenge of the 13-cent first-class postal rate

Opposing the letter rate, Maine Attorney General Joseph Brennan charged that it doesn't cost the Postal Service 13 cents to deliver a first-class letter

By officially making the 13-cent rate permanent last Sunday, "the Postal Service apparently means to continue business as usual, forcing first-class mailers to subsidize mail of other classes," Brennan said

The seven states notified the U.S Court of Appeals on Friday that it will challenge the legality of the first-class postage rate

The states have opposed the Postal Service plan to establish 13 cents as the permanent rate in hearings before the Postal Rate Commission, an independent advisory body

"The evidence presented showed that the 13-cent rate is well in excess of the cost of mailing a first class letter," Brennan said

Murder charge

HEBRON, Neb (AP) — Mrs Rosemary Harris, 50, of Chester was bound over to Thayer County District Court Friday for trial on a first-degree murder charge

Mrs Harris was charged in the death of Herbert Crane, 54, with whom she had lived for 20 years, according to County Atty Duane Hubbard.

Crane's decomposed body was found July 6 in a hog shed on his small acreage at the edge of Chester

Hubbard said preliminary autopsy reports indicated Crane had been shot in the head

No trial date was set

Mrs Harris was held without bond in the Thayer County jail
